Smugglers' Tricks.

Some amusing anecdotes are related in connection with the recent discoveries of smugglers' tricks. A few years ago an individual in an ecclesiastical costume used to cross the frontier from Switzerland into France every morning with a large breviary in his hand. He was a man of dignified aspect and received every mark of deference from the customs officers, who sometimes accompanied him part of the way of his daily stroll. At last a letter put the authorities on the alert, and the presumed priest was found to be a professional smuggler, who had contrived to introduce into France at least 1,000 watches in his breviary, which on examination proved to be a tin box.

Very curious also was the experience of a former inspector general of customs here. During a visit to Geneva he bought a clock and instructed the vendor to forward it only when he had informed him of his return to Paris, adding that he must be careful to pay the duty. One of the first things that he noticed on his arrival at his home was this identical timepiece in his drawing room, and in reply to his questions his coachman explained that the tradesman had himself stowed the clock away in his carriage. It is calculated that only one out of ten professional smugglers is ever caught. —London Telegraph.

A Competent Motorman.

The complete power which a thoroughly practical and long experienced motorman has over his truckle car was clearly demonstrated by one of the employees of the Missouri line in Philadelphia the other day. It was dinner time, and several of the cars were at one end of the room. Included in the bunch of one of the motorman was a hand boiled egg. In a jiffy way he said to his neighbor, "I will tell you that I can crack the shell of this egg without breaking the egg with the front dasher of my car." A pool was made and the motorman reversed the current and backed his car a distance of several yards. One of his companions stood on the rear platform of the car in front and held the egg between his fingers, with one end against the rear dasher of the car. The motorman of the lot started his car forward at a good rate of speed and then applied the brake, bringing the car to a dead standstill only when it had come so close to the car ahead as to hold the egg suspended in the air. Then he again reversed the current, and the shell was found to be cracked, but the meat of the egg unbroken. —Exchange.

Where They All Gargle.

A visitor to the French springs at Chautauque, where sulphur waters are highly recommended for throat difficulties, writes thus:

"I recalled into the Thermo and was immediately seized with astonishment at the gurgling room. The solemn way in which people took their glasses of water and went to guzzle was a source of wonder to one who was not accustomed to it. I will draw a veil over the gurgling. It is not a beautiful sight, and the best looking woman can hardly look pretty when engaged in it.

"Proficiency in gurgling is much admired, and I overheard a group discussing a man who they said, 'gargled a merrill.' At the table d'hôte later I was summoned to hear a man ask a good looking girl if she gargled. 'Oh, yes, monsieur,' was the reply. 'Shall we gargle together tomorrow?' he asked, and she seemed quite pleased." —Pearson's Weekly.

Two of a Kind.

A professor was waiting for a train at a railway station, and having nothing better with which to take up his mind began chaffing a half witted fellow who did odd jobs about the place. So says Scottish Nights, from which we borrow the story.

"I say, Jamy," said the professor in a tone intended to reach the ears of the bystanders, "were you ever at college?" "No, sir," answered Jamy, "but I've been at school."

"Indeed," said the witty professor, "And who had the honor to be your schoolmaster?"

"Master Black,"

"Why," said the wit, "he was my schoolmaster too."

"Do tell me," exclaimed Jamy.

"Man, who'd 'a' thought old Black could have turned out two like us?"

Goals in Baggage Cars.

Some years ago the baggage department of the Northern Pacific road issued an order that no goats should be transported in baggage cars. A peculiar incident brought about the general order. A goat had been placed in a baggage car that was bound for the Pacific coast. During the trip the animal had eaten the leather straps that held the brass checks to the trunks. When Portland was reached, the checks were all on the floor of the car, and there was no way of identifying the trunks. It took nearly three months to straighten out the tangle, and the general order was issued. —Minneapolis Times.

TARIFF AND FREE COINAGE.

Some months ago our Republican friends were telling us that tariff and free coinage would be the slogan of their party in the next Presidential campaign. Hon. T. B. Reed, now Speaker of the House of Representatives, was credited with raising the war cry and every little place hunter in the country piped approval. Now the Finance Committee of the Senate has reported a bill embodying these two principles and recommending its passage. This bill contains the Dingley Tariff bill passed by the House and the Senate Silver bill. It fixes tariff schedules just as the Republicans proposed in their bill, and it provides for the free coinage of gold and silver as the financial reformers desire. It is strictly in accordance with the Republican program as mapped out by Mr. Reed and endorsed by his followers less than a year ago. Now, however, it is repudiated by Republicans in the Senate, and Senator Jones, who, as a member of the Finance Committee, recommended its passage, is denounced by the obnoxious press of this State as obstructing the passage of the tariff bill.

What in the name of common sense do the place hunting patriots of Nevada want, except office? They should know that securing places for themselves at the public crib will not benefit the masses. Why do not the place-hunters, who are the only persons in the State that would derive any benefit from the Dingley tariff bill, act independently of their place-hunting leaders and ask Congress to pass the tariff and free coinage bill reported by the Senate? It embodies what the people of this State want and its enactment would make Nevada one of the most prosperous States in the Union. Therefore, instead of snarling at Senator Jones for advocating the bill the whole people, irrespective of party, should commend him and use all their influence to get the Republicans in the Senate and House to vote for the measure.

THE VOTE ON THE SILVER BILL.

The Congressional Record containing the vote on the Senate Silver bill, which was substituted for the House bond bill, shows that 21 Democrats, 15 Republicans and 6 Populists, including Senators Jones and Stewart of Nevada, voted for the bill. Against it are recorded the votes of 22 Republicans and 13 Democrats. There were paired off for the bill three Democrats and three Republicans, and against the bill four Republicans and two Democrats. This would make in a full Senate 18 for silver and 41 against it. Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania was the only Republican from east of the Mississippi who voted for the bill, and Mr. Price of Oregon was the only member of any party from West of the Missouri who voted against the bill.

The majority of the States of the Union, as represented in the United States Senate, are for the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, but unfortunately for the country the States which are controlled by the gold combination have the largest representation in the House of Representatives and will not vote for the Senate substitute for the bond bill. They favor contraction of the currency and the issuance of interest-bearing bonds, while the States of the south and west believe in the coinage of more money and no more gold bonds. No doubt the masses of the people of the east are in sympathy with the south and west, but the press and the political organizations are conducted in the interest of the gold speculators and oppose any measure that will expand the currency.

THE WALL STREET TEST OF LOYALTY.

Senator Vest of Missouri sent to the clerk's desk in the Senate and had read a paragraph from the circular of a Wall street firm of bankers and brokers, stating that the United States Senate is sinking lower and lower in public estimation and threatening revolution unless the Senate adhered to the gold standard. Vest said the Senator from South Carolina had been denounced as a communist because he spoke of an incipient revolution in this country, but here was a statement from New York bankers that unless the Senate did the bidding of the capitalists and adopted their opinions and policy a revolution was at hand and a convulsion was coming.

It appears that it is the next thing to treason for a Senator or Representative in Congress to speak of the condition of the masses and sound a note of warning to plutocrats, but for Wall street bankers and brokers, who have gold to loan, to threaten revolution, unless the Senate declares for the gold standard and sanctions the issuance of bonds, must be regarded as patriotic. To this complexion has it come, that a person who insists on the coinage of gold and silver, the money of the constitution, and does not bow to the golden god worshipped in Wall Street, is classed as an anarchist or communist, while those who reverently and submissively bow to the idol, though deprived of the common necessities of life through the exaltation of gold, are the only law-abiding citizens in the land, as fealty to the gold standard is the Wall street test of loyalty to the Government.

Will the gold men deplete the reserve fund to buy bonds which are being sold to replenish it?

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Frye Elected President Pro tem of the Senate—Newlands Speaks for Silver.

WASHINGTON, February 7.—The first hour of the Senate to-day was consumed largely in the election of Frye of Maine as President pro tem. The election was unanimous and marked by a display of good nature and compliments.

The House to-day suddenly became involved in a bitter controversy. It sprang from remarks made by Talbot in defense of secession, which Barrett interpreted as treasonable. He had the speaker's words taken down and offered a resolution of censure. After the wrangle and some explanations, Dingley moved to refer the Barrett resolution to the Committee on Judiciary. This was carried by a vote of 154 to 41. This is understood to mean that no notice will be taken of the matter.

Talbot rose to a question of personal privilege to correct what he said was an unintentional misrepresentation in the public prints.

"In a jocular way, Mr. Speaker," continued Talbot, "I declared we were not whipped but had worn ourselves out trying to whip the other fellows. In the heat of the moment and impulsively I said that South Carolina was not ashamed of the part she took in it, and that I for one endorsed secession then. I thought we were right. I think so yet and that under the same circumstances surrounded by the same conditions I would do the same thing again. Now, Mr. Speaker, I repeat it."

Crisp moved that Talbot be permitted to explain. The words were read at the Clerk's desk. Barrett then formally made the point of order that when a statement made by a member had been called in question and he deliberately reiterated it, it constituted a new statement and a new offense.

He proposed now to offer a resolution of censure. The excitement on the floor was intense. Crisp said he had never known an instance, when a member made that he be allowed to explain his utterance, where such motion was not considered. Barrett replied that he had no objection to the gentleman from South Carolina explaining at the proper time. There was more parliamentary sparring between Crisp and Barrett, during which the excitement increased.

The Speaker finally cut the matter short by saying that if the House was not satisfied with Talbot's explanation a resolution might be offered. The Speaker decided that Crisp's motion was in order.

"I take it for granted," said Dingley, rising, "that the House does not intend to vote on the resolution of censure without according the gentleman from South Carolina an opportunity to explain." These generous words won applause from the Democratic side.

Talbot explained that he had arisen to correct a misrepresentation. "South Carolina," he proceeded, "was as loyal and true to the Union as any State. The circumstances under which she seceded could not exist again and he was glad of it."

The debate on the free silver substitute for the bond bill proceeded steadily in the House to-day. The House met at 10:30 with less than thirty members present. Newlands awoke the empty echoes of the vast hall with a vigorous argument in favor of the free and independent coinage of silver. He asserted that not a single debtor nation in the world maintained a gold standard except the United States, and that we had done so as the price of continued bond issues. Hartman and Kom followed in favor of concurrence and Tucker in favor of non-concurrence.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Storms in New York and New Jersey did great damage.

The Catron bill to prohibit prize-fighting in the Territories was approved by the President yesterday.

El Paso was thrown into a state of wild excitement upon receipt of the news that the Senate had passed the anti-prize-fighting bill.

John Hays Hammond of California, accused of complicity in the late uprising at Johannesburg, South Africa, has been released on bail.

The Germania Hotel at Santa Cruz was damaged by fire caused by a defective flue, yesterday morning to the extent of $2,000; fully insured.

The operators in the Lehigh Valley and Central railroad office at Somerville, New Jersey, sent messages while up to their knees in water. Traffic was much impeded.

H. W. Crowe of Wilber, Nebraska, charged with poisoning his wife to conceal his criminal intimacy with her sister, Miss May Rambo, was acquitted after a very sensational trial.

The Treasury Department has classified the bids for bonds. There were 781 bids above the Morgan syndicate for a total of $40,788,850. This will give the syndicate $34,221,150.

The yard engine of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Pittsburg ran into a street car and killed Conductor V. H. Cooper and fatally injured the motor-man, John Kingley. The passengers on the street car escaped with slight injuries.

Martin Curry, Daniel O'Brien and Nicholas Rich were killed by the fall of the Queanabuck bridge at Bristol, Connecticut. There were thirteen men on the bridge when it went down and the survivors sustained painful bruises.

Scott Jackson and A. M. Walling, arrested on the charge of murdering Pearl Bryan near Cincinnati, were arraigned on a charge of murder and held without bail. William Wood arrested on a charge of aiding in committing abortion pleaded guilty and was held in $5,000 bail. Miss Bryan was beheaded after she was murdered to conceal her identity.

James Winters arrived at Sacramento last Monday to visit his daughter, Mrs. L. T. Hatfield. Yesterday he put the muzzle of a shotgun loaded with bird shot to his stomach, discharged the gun with his toe, killing himself. He had been a member of the Legislature and a brother of Rev. William Winters, residing at Hollister. He was in ill health and 70 years old.

The Sultan has replied to the autograph letter of Queen Victoria which personally appealed to him against the Armenian outrages. He declares the reported outrages were spread by evil disposed persons and adds that contrary to allegations the Turks were first attacked while praying in a mosque. He assures the Queen that the measures taken have restored order.

A new bridge had been built over the Queanabuck river at Hartford, Conn., for the New England railroad. While the workmen were engaged in taking up the ties and rails from the old bridge the structure suddenly gave way, precipitating fifteen workmen into the icy waters below. Two or three managed to reach land in safety, and nine of the fifteen escaped alive. The body of one man was recovered and five are still missing.

The Treasury is losing gold rapidly. The magnitude of the subscriptions to the loan, which amounted to $558,000, calls attention to the fact that the total amount of gold coin and gold notes in the United States is less than that amount, and the inference is that a number of bidders depended on getting enough from the treasury to pay for bonds. There are grave fears that the $100,000,000 bond sale will not leave the reserve fund much above the $100,000,000 requirement.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

A CAR'S ESCAPEDE.

IT STARTED A NEW BREED OF CAT-TLE IN THE DELAWARE VALLEY.

Coe Little's Bill and His Train Failed to Agree When He Reached Port Jervis.
The Explanation Offered For the Car's Strange Freak.

"It isn't likely that there is any of the Coe Little breed of cattle left in the upper Delaware valley," said a veteran railroad man, "because, by this time, their identity must have been destroyed through mixture with other breeds. It doesn't matter, for there was nothing of particular note about that breed of cattle, except the way they happened to be introduced into that locality.

"In those days, live stock transportation was one of the Erie's big items of traffic. Trains half a mile long, loaded with horned cattle, horses, sheep and pigs, had to pass over the road two or three times a day. Such a thing is almost a curiosity nowadays. Coe Little was conductor of one of these stock trains between Susquehanna and Port Jervis. He left Susquehanna one night, with a good old days of railroading, in a long train of cattle cars. Those days were next to passenger trains in the, and were run over the road a-humming. Conductor Little delivered his train at Port Jervis on time, and handed over his way bills, which he had received at Susquehanna, and on which the number, character and contents of every car in his train were recorded.
When the agent at Port Jervis compared Little's train on this voucher, one car was missing. The car was entered on the bill as having left Susquehanna all right, but it wasn't in the train. Its contents, according to the bill, was about the middle of the train.

Well, here was a situation. Coe Little declared that every car was in the train when he left Susquehanna, for he had checked the number of each one on the way bill himself. He certainly didn't deliver the missing car to any one on the way, and he couldn't see how it could have sneaked in and stolen, especially as the train had been under his eye pretty much all the time between Susquehanna and Port Jervis.
The agent was sent to the agent at Susquehanna, asking for information about the missing car. The reply was that nothing was known there that could throw any light on the subject; quite the contrary, for the agent corroborated Little's story. At the car was in the train when it left Susquehanna.

When the efforts of the puzzled agent at Port Jervis to solve the mystery failed, some one discovered the car, and that should have been the end of the missing car. But it was not so. The one that should have been found of it without the aid of any one, but the hunk being broken in pieces, it had become a hunk, which was fast in the pulchre in the cup of the other car. This didn't help matters a little bit, and rather helped the mystery.

They went still deep in efforts to solve the mystery, and a car tracer was sent out to look back over the road to see if he could find the car, when a telegram came from Shohola, a station 10 miles west of Port Jervis. The agent at Shohola, in an effort to complicate the case, was away in a field of corn, and the Delaware river just beyond Shohola, and that somewhere had better come and look after it. The watching dog was sent up from Port Jervis, and came enough, in the middle of a field, 100 feet or more from the railroad, stood the missing cattle car, right as a trivet, except that its doors were open and its cattle gone. To get where it was the car had run down a ten foot embankment, across a wagon road and through a stout rail fence.

"There was only one way to explain the freak of the car in quitting its train so unceremoniously. Going east along that part of the Erie the track is on a heavy down grade. Just before reaching Shohola the coupling pin that held the car to the one ahead of it must have broken. This divided the train in two parts. The head car of the rear part jumped the track, and breaking the hunk that held it to the car behind it, went on down the bank, getting out of the way of the cars following on the track.
When the leading section of the divided train got to the foot of the grade, its speed slackened. The hunk section caught up with it, and ran into the rear car, but not with force sufficient to do any damage or attract attention.
The broken hunk, then a hunk, happened to fall into the pulchre of the coupler ahead of it. The train was thus recompiled and went on to Port Jervis without the loss of a car right out of its very center having been discovered by any one. There is no parallel to this one in the record of mishaps to railroad trains, and it has never ceased to be a wonder to all old time railroad men.

Well, whether the doors of the fugitive car were broken by the jar and jolt of its trip down the bank, through the fence, and across the lot, or whether the cattle inside kicked them open, I can't say. They were open, and the cattle jumped out. It was winter, and the Delaware river, only a few feet away, was filled with running ice. The cattle must have been in a panic, or must have known that they were in Pike county, Pa., or something of that sort, for they plunged into that icy flood and made their way across the river into Sullivan county, N. Y. Searchers, accompanied by the drover who owned them, found and recovered them all. One cow, a deep red animal with a white star in her forehead, took the fancy of a farmer on whose premises some of the cattle were found, and he bought her. She had twin calves in the spring, each marked exactly like the mother. One was a bull calf, cow a heifer. Because of the way in which the stock happened to be there it was called the Coe Little breed, and for some years was a favorite breed among the farmers of that part of the valley."—New York Sun

BEAUTIFUL AND STRONG.

The Greatest American Prima Donna Made Well by Paine's Celery Compound.

There was never a remedy so highly recommended as Paine's Celery Compound.

There was never a remedy in such universal demand.

For it makes people well!

Every one among the thousands who have been delighted by the beautiful songs of Roma, the great prima donna, recognized in her one of the world-famous singers.

Born in California, she graduated with honors at Eastern musical colleges, and on her return to the coast, became first the prima donna at the Tivoli Opera House in San Francisco.

It was while making the tour with the famous Marine Band of Washington last season, that the beautiful Roma felt the strain of travel, hurry and work, yet in the evenings she greeted great audiences with smiles and electrified them with her voice.

Could she have done this without her nerves were steady and her strength built up by Paine's Celery Compound?

She says:

"In Paine's Celery Compound I find a very much long-felt want for the worries and exhaustive cares attendant upon an active professional life.
Paine's Celery Compound brings restful strength to body and mind, invigorating the system and prolonging life."

Paine's Celery Compound has made thousands of people well. It has saved thousands of women from nervous prostration. It has made the weak strong.
It has cured where everything else failed. Innumerable testimonials as to its wonderful value have been voluntarily sent to Wells & Richardson

Co., who prepare it in Burlington, Vt.

Paine's Celery Compound is the most remarkable remedy for the blood and nerves, known to the 19th century.

It is employed by the foremost physicians in curing kidney and liver troubles and the diseases due to nervous disorders, faulty nutrition, and impoverished blood, producing results that seem little short of the miraculous.

Paine's Celery Compound builds up the system, purifies the blood, and regulates the nerves. The weak and worn-out soon find their frames invigorated, their spirits raised, and their strength restored.

It makes people well.

It is as superior to the ordinary ner-vines, bitters, and sarsaparillas as strength is better than weakness.
